WRANGLING AS TO THE TERMS

Express Companies And Unions Clash On The Taking Back Of The Drivers.

CONFERENCE HELD THIS AFTERNOON

Attorneys Seeking Some Loophole To Bring About A Settlement—More Teamsters Have Gone Out Today.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, May 23.—Teamsters, employed by eighteen different lumber firms, struck this morning, adding about 800 teamsters to those already out on strike, and apparently making out the prospects of a settlement more remote than ever.

At nine-thirty this morning a conference was called in the office of Attorney Mayer for the purpose of finding some solution, if possible, to the problem involved in the attitude of the express companies toward their teamsters on strike. The companies have maintained they could not take men back who violated their contracts with them. Unless some provision is made for the express drivers the unions claim they can make no settlement of the strike.

Look for Loophole
Mayor Dunne, Levy Mayer, attorney for the employers, representatives of all the express companies, and the attorney committee were present at the conference. The belief is current the conference will result in finding some loophole through which the locked-out express drivers can be taken back, which will remove the last obstacle in the path of a settlement.

A Second Conference
At the conclusion of the conference with Mayor Dunne, the United States Express company was still unwilling to make any concessions. Another meeting was arranged, however, for this afternoon, when President Barry of the Express Drivers and Expressmen's union will be present and the attorney committee will make a final effort to get together on a means to settle the strike.

Special Deputies
Mayor Dunne, Chief of Police O'Neill and the Cook county sheriff held a conference this morning on the strike situation. It was decided to send a large force of police and deputies to the lumber district, where several hundred men went on strike this morning. Sheriff Barrett will swear in two hundred additional deputies for this duty.

Union Makes Peace Move.
The renewal of peace negotiations was brought about at the instance of the union. President Shea and Mr. Reed of the furniture drivers' union called on Mr. Mayer in his office. The visit was unofficial and was made by the union leaders in the hope of arranging another meeting with the employers.

After a short discussion it was arranged that Shea and Reed, together with a representative committee from the teamsters' joint council, should meet Mr. Mayer at the Annex. Later the lawyer requested that the committee should come to the conference with the full power to act in case an agreement was reached. Shea promised to go before the council meeting and secure, if possible, the ratification of such a plan. The "full powers" were not secured, but the committee was sent.

Talk of a New Proposition.
When Shea returned to union headquarters in the Briggs house the rumor immediately spread that he had brought back a new proposition from the express companies. It was said that while the companies still refused to reinstate their former employees who had struck, a plan had been evolved which was satisfactory to the strike leaders and which would not prove embarrassing to the express companies.

The companies, it was said, at that time, were willing to exchange men. For example, the American Express company, while it would not reinstate its strikers, would not bar those drivers who struck against the United States Express company from applying for positions, and would not discriminate against them.

This new proposition about the express companies was given considerable discussion at the joint meeting of the national executive committee and the strike committee from the teamsters' council.

Shea's Plan Not Approved.
One other subject which was reported to have occupied the attention of the joint committee meeting was the leadership of President Shea. The teamsters' head, it was said, had devised a ruse by which he hoped to "get rid" of the executive board of the union. Shea, it was said, had secured credentials from President Gompers and had presented them to each member of the board, whereby they were authorized to go out to the other cities and solicit strike funds in the name of the American Federation of Labor. Before they accepted, however, the executive members took the hint and announced their intention individually to remain in Chicago until the strike is settled.

President Gompers left at 6 p. m. Monday for Minneapolis, from which place he will begin a tour of Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri. Before he left he declared he had made no important moves in connection with the strike.

"I am going on my way to fulfill my engagements in other cities," he said. "Unless I should be summoned, it is not likely that I shall return to Chicago. From the present indications peace seems to be only a matter of a few days. I sincerely hope that it will be consummated."

The strike was extended yesterday to two lumber concerns employing a total of 125 teamsters. They were the Edward Hines Lumber company and the Rittenhouse & Emigre company. When deliveries were ordered to the boycotted houses, in accordance with the ultimatum of the united wood industries, the drivers walked out. Subsequently goods were taken to the affected firms with non-union teamsters under police protection.

Fifteen more lumber companies probably will be affected to-day in consequence of orders for material from the boycotted firms. These were received during the day, but no attempt was made to effect deliveries. The lumber men met in the forenoon and decided to force the issue at once. The representatives of the sixty-five concerns in the association declare they were ready to stand by the ultimatum.

BERRY MURDER MAY BE CLEARED SHORTLY

Jury Is Investigating the Witnesses Behind Closed Doors Today.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Savanna, Ill., May 23.—While the assassin of Hon. Daniel S. Berry has not been apprehended, it is believed the mystery will be cleared before many hours. The coroner's inquest was resumed this morning and the public excluded. The circumstantial theory is current which connects a well-known business man with the tragedy. This may find developments at the inquest.

Theories advanced by the authorities cover every field of possible explanation, including as culprits an enemy of Berry angered by disturbed domestic relations; a criminal, in prosecuting whom the attorney had been active, and a woman bent on revenge for some unknown reason, but all lack tangible support.

The crime was committed during the busiest hours of the morning in one of the busiest blocks in the heart of the city. The attorney's office, in what is known as the Pullford Opera House block. He had just reached the door when the murderer slipped up behind him and fired. The first bullet passed through his head, penetrating the door five feet seven inches from the floor.

Berry evidently swung around in falling, as the second bullet entered his right arm. He fell to the right of the door. His assailant fled without waiting to see whether he had been successful in his mission.

The sounds of the shots were heard in the street, but little attention was paid to them until two frightened telephone girls in an adjoining office ran to the front window and began to scream for assistance. Two men ran to a rear door and, seeing the body of a man stretched at full length in front of Berry's office, joined their outcries with those of their companions.

Merchants left their places of business and hurried to the scene. With them came John Brearton, nephew of Mr. Berry. As soon as he saw his uncle and realized that he had been injured Brearton called Dr. W. W. McGrath and Dr. J. D. Lyness. They found their services were not required, the first bullet having caused death.

Coroner J. B. Schreiter was summoned and immediately took charge of the body, which was carried into the Berry's office. A jury was empaneled and the inquest was begun. Every person but the coroner's jury and the testifying witnesses were examined, but none were able to give more than his or her theory of the shooting.

Misses Julia McGrath and Grace Kiley, two of the telephone operators, testified that they had heard the shooting, and upon looking into the hall had seen the body of Mr. Berry lying upon the floor.

They had heard no altercation before the shooting and had not seen anyone running away when they reached the hall.

Other witnesses told of the finding of the body, but no witness was found who was able to throw any light on the mystery.

DIVIDE CHURCH ON COLOR LINE

Presbyterians Decide On Separate Organiza- tions For Negro Communicants.

NORTH AND SOUTH ARE UNITED

Cumberland Branch Will Join With the Regulars At The Fiftieth Anniversary Of The Split-Over Race Question.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Winona Lake, Ind., May 23.—The Presbyterians of the United States by an overwhelming vote, have decided that negro Presbyterians may be organized into separate presbyteries. One hundred and eighty-eight presbyteries voted for the proposal and only forty-five against.

Simultaneously with this announcement the general assembly by an equally overwhelming vote, decided to unite with the Cumberland Presbyterian churches.

It is regarded as a great historical coincidence that the Cumberland Presbyterians, who left the parental church because of the negro question, should be bought back after a lapse of fifty years on the same day that the Presbyterian church north practically decided to exclude the negro from the white presbyteries and to force him to organize separate presbyteries for his own race.

Negroes Oppose the Plan.
All of the negro commissioners to the present general assembly are bitterly opposed to the proposal for colored presbyteries. The Freedmen's board opposes the plan, as does the New York and other presbyteries. The colored commissioners declare they will refuse to form separate presbyteries unless absolutely frozen out of the present relations to the church.

The general assembly still has the race question to face. The colored branch of the Cumberland Presbyterian church made an overture for a union with the general assembly. The overture came in a telegram from the colored Cumberland Presbyterian general assembly in session at Huntsville, Ala., in this language:

"The Cumberland Presbyterian general assembly, colored, has appointed a committee of seven to confer with a like committee appointed by your assembly to look to union."

"C. L. DAVIS, stated clerk."

The telegram was referred to the committee on bills and overtures with-out action.

Unite With Cumberland.

The Cumberland Presbyterian church voted with the general assembly at noon Monday, without a speech and without a dissenting vote.

It was the final action of the general assembly on one of the greatest questions which has come before it since the civil war, and brings back into that organization a branch which went out during the war because of differences over negro slavery. If the opposition to the union has made any fight it has been chiefly at the secret meetings of the special canvassing committee, but there were no signs of such contest. This special committee, in its report, canvassed the votes taken by presbyteries on the question of union. It showed 114 votes yes, 33 no. Two took no action, one gave conditional assent, and five made no report.

The special committee asked that the proposition be referred to the committee on co-operation and union, that it have power to confer with a committee from the Cumberland church, that it find what details must be worked out to consummate the union, and that a report be made to the general assembly next year. This committee is to keep the consolidation within legal limits, that all civil suits and injunctions may be avoided.

High Ground on Divorce.

High ground was taken on the subject of divorce, and it was resolved: "That ministers should refuse to marry divorced persons; except of an innocent party, in a case where the divorce has been granted on Scriptural grounds, nor until assured that a period of one year has elapsed from the date of the decision allowing the divorce."

The proposition to prepare a ritual for family worship was deferred until next year, as to push it now would have brought on a premature fight.

the tax and in case of agreement to shift the tax to the mortgagee or when the tax is evaded the mortgage becomes null and void and cannot be offered in court in an action to recover. The bill is to correct the law of two years ago, under which mortgages escaped taxation as personal property and when assessed as realty the tax was invariably shifted to the mortgagee. Governor La Follette sent four veto messages to the assembly: the Milwaukee district court reporter vacation and substitute bill; Milwaukee sheriff's street-car fare bill; the appeal from the decisions of towns on highway matters by non residents; and the licensing of agents of fire insurance companies that do not comply with the laws of the state. The senate had 14 bills on the calendar, and laid over 9, killed 2 and advanced 3.

WANT TO RAISE THE SALARY LIST

THE LEGISLATURE WOULD MAKE THEIR PAY $1,000.

PRESENT SUM IS TOO SMALL

Senate Does Some Special Work on Bills That Were Doubtful as Passed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, May 23.—A measure designated extensively as a "salary grab" but which the members of the legislature of Wisconsin say is just and for the "good of the service," having for its aim the doubling of the salary of members by raising it from $500 a session to $1,000, is being aggressively pushed and seems reasonably certain of passing both houses. It is being favored in the senate by Senator E. E. Stevens of Oshkosh and in the assembly by Assemblyman George F. Beedle of Waupaca county. They propose that a proposition be submitted to the people at the next general election to change the constitution so as to raise the salaries of members of the legislature from $500 to $1,000 per session. They argue from the fact that the legislature draw more money than do the members and the remuneration is far less than sufficient to pay the board, lodging and laundry bills of the members during the session, to say nothing of the many inevitable expenses incidental to life for six months at the state capitol. Many of the more substantial members declare that if they ever thought it cost so much to serve the state in the capacity of makers of laws and if they thought the session would drag out so long, they never would have accepted the office. The salaries of the employees range from $3 to $6 a day and in a session of six months their pay amounts to more than that of a member.

The legislature is making a strenuous effort to finish the work in the next few weeks, but on account of the many important converted measures to be disposed of yet, it is doubtful whether adjournment can be reached before the middle of June. Members say they will not remain so long and unless the business is cleared up in two weeks they will absent themselves, "with or without leave."

The aldermanic recall bill, providing that an alderman may be removed from office by a petition signed by a majority of the voters of his ward, which was non-concurred in Friday, was given a new chance last night when Senator Sanborn moved reconsideration.

There will be no legal contest over the Superior grain inspection law which was passed early in the session. The opponents to the law declared that they would not operate under it but would fight it in the courts. Their ideas have been incorporated into a new bill, amending the law, and this was passed by the senate last night, removing the prospect of litigation and a test case.

Senator McGillivray's bill to allow the state association of architects to examine and license applicants to their profession was advanced.

Both houses worked diligently and disposed of long calendars, being determined to complete the work of the session in the coming two weeks. The bill to limit the issue of stocks and bonds of railroads and other public service corporations was advanced by the assembly without a vote in opposition. Similar bills have been offered and killed in every session for a dozen years past.

MELODRAMA BY A CAPABLE COMPANY

"In His Power" Was Opening Bill of Grindell-Davis Stock Co. at the Myers Last Night.

"In His Power," a melodrama with a hypnotist as the villain, was presented by the Grindell-Davis Co. last evening as the opening bill of their week's engagement at the Myers theatre. The plot revolves about the robbery of Dr. Leslie, the absent-minded physician, by Richard Glenwood, "the shadow," and his accomplices and the attempt to do away with Flossie Glenwood, the heiress, which is neatly foiled by Lucifer the detective. The parts are well taken. D. E. Grindell as the hypnotist, William Miss Alice Davis as the heiress, Mrs. Jennie Burleigh as Mother McKracken, Frank Patten as the detective, and Miss Annes French as Millie Merton, all being good. Will Bruno who played in his characterization of the colored servant, Noah Lett, also made a hit in his singing of "When the Breezy-coles Blow" between the acts. The other specialties were also well received. Tonight's offering is "A Jealous Wife."

Just what the Janesville boys will succeed in doing individually against the 250 competitors or as a team among the thirty-seven schools who will be represented, cannot be predicted. They scarcely hope to place their local team in any of the first three places but expect to carry off a portion of the honors as individuals. Superintendent Buell together with the other members of the state athletic board of control completed the arrangements of selecting judges and officials last Saturday at a meeting in Madison.

Button vs. Buttonhole. Having shown how the Chicago strike could be settled, determining what to do with railroad rates, deciding how to quiet Venezuela, and explaining how the canyon war could be brought to an end, but all without avail the Rusk Lyceum debating society has decided for one night to abandon the helping of the nations and the assisting of humanity generally and discuss a question which is of vital importance only to the lives of the subjects. Thursday evening June first, the topic for debate will be: "Resolved, that the button is used more than the buttonhole." The affirmative side will be presented by Clayton Fisher, Frank Phelps, and Fay Edgington and the negative arguments will be given by Floyd Davis, Oscar Kahn and Perry Sprague.

To Entertain Regularly. On Thursday, the regular meeting night of the Rusk Lyceum, Kenneth Jeffris will be the host of the members of the society at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. COMEDY TEAM HEAD VAUDEVILLE BILL

Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Gaylor at West Side—Entire Bill Is Strong This Week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Gaylor, a comedy sketch team of merit, is the headline attraction at the West Side vaudeville house this week. Their skit is pleasing and fresh. Major O'Laughlin gives an exhibition of gun spinning and baton twirling which was last evening greatly applauded. George Hatch is appearing this week with two new illustrated songs, "You Never Spoke Like That Before to Me" and "Where the Southern Roses Grow." As usual he delighted his listeners who evidenced their approval by liberal applause. The feats of Mille, Hilda, the lady contortionist, are wonderful. The Mack sisters with singing and dancing stunts deserved the encores they receive, and the character presentations, among them "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," by Jean Beaumont, the European novelty change artist, are good. The projectoscope pictures are excellent. The two films shown are "Up Mt. Pilatus, an Interrupted Flirtation" and "Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son."

The Aurora Zuaves "The Perfect Soldiers" with the Great Adam Forepaugh-Sells Circus.

A fascinating feature of The Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' Enormous Shows is the drilling and war manoeuvres of the champion Aurora Zuaves. These American citizen soldiers were as triumphant abroad as in their native country. Military experts of Germany, France and England have extended to them the highest praise, and emphatically pronounced them unrivaled experts in drill and complex celerity of movement. Upon their return from this European success they were secured by The Forepaugh-Sells management for an appropriate feature of the military display in their great shows. The New York papers were in a unit in ecstatic praise of their splendid military tactics. The New York American called them "A huge redlegged sentinels, whose celerity and precision have astonished the military world." Their wall-scaling exploits and dashing, dexterous military evolutions have brought them distinguished fame in every country of the world. The men are young and perfect physical types, and their clock-like manual movements, and lightning speed in scaling high wall barriers, loaded with war arms, ammunition and accoutrements, complete a performance of the most thrilling character, and unlike anything ever seen before. Russia, Germany and France have standing armies of a million men each, many million more to be found in Austria, Italy and Turkey, yet among all of these vast bodies there is not to be found a company of soldiers that can approach the marvelous skill and mathematical precision of these young Americans. They have been seen in every capital of the old world, and every great general and military expert before whom they have appeared has firmly conceded to them the palm of absolute supremacy in original, beautiful and intricate military manoeuvres.

INCREASE SHOWN BY POSTOFFICES

JUDGE E. W. KEYES GATHERS INTERESTING DATA IN STATE.

AND PROSPERITY IS EVIDENT

Janesville Well Up on the List of Prosperous Cities in Wisconsin.

(By Judge E. W. Keyes.)

The postal service of this country is, and always has been, a question of deep and abiding interest to the people. When my father first came to Wisconsin territory, it had not so many postoffices as he had fingers upon his hands. Since that early period there has been a steady and continual increase, until today there are 1,500 postoffices in the state, although since the establishment of the rural free delivery service 600 have been discontinued. There are 200 presidential offices among the number, that is, offices that have reached $1,900 per annum in gross receipts. In such cases the appointments are made by the president. The lowest salary a presidential postmaster receives is $1,000 per annum. Ever since Wisconsin was admitted into the union, its postal service has been profitable to the department, yielding considerably more than the cost of the same.

Lake Mills Supplies Aztalan.

In 1884 a postoffice was established at Lake Mills, and my father was appointed postmaster, and I was made his assistant. Up to that time Lake Mills had been supplied from the office of Aztalan, three miles away. On the day the tables are turned, and the postoffice at Aztalan, "the Ancient City," so-called, is crowded out of the encroachments of the rural free delivery service, and its patrons are supplied from the postoffice at Lake Mills.

The increase in receipts of the postoffices throughout the state is a sure indication of the growth and prosperity of the several localities. The following table shows the business transacted by the postoffices in the state, in cities of 10,000 population or over. Each one of the postoffices shows a liberal increase, with two exceptions, for the year ending March 31, 1905.

Liberal Increases Shown.

The gross amount of receipts for the year indicated, is the basis upon which the department fixes the allowance for expenditures for each office for the fiscal year commencing July 1 following. The record for the year follows:

Postoffice.	Receipts.	Expenses.
Milwaukee	$1,032,214.02	$69,461.26
Racine	218,243.94	12,523.51
Madison	98,608.53	5,033.61
La Crosse	95,212.19	5,226.30
Oshkosh	94,466.68	2,860.81
Green Bay	45,601.94	424.97
Superior	41,382.95	525.23
Fond du Lac	38,926.97	3,376.82
Janesville	35,920.25	1,425.71
Ban Claire	35,543.86	2,371.65
Sheboygan	35,290.30	2,086.41
Appleton	32,600.77	1,909.49
Kenosha	29,019.51	2,202.69
Beloit	28,358.00	2,170.19
Manitowish	25,561.66	3,527.42
Wausau	24,876.52	2,950.40
Ashland	24,110.95	336.98
Marinette	22,006.48	336.98

Totals $1,936,260.74 $106,956.97

Decrease from previous year: Racine, $3,975.33; Ashland, $1,620.06.

Losses Easily Accounted For.

The losses shown in the cities of Racine and Ashland are easily accounted for, and do not mean any material diminution of their business. The quite large loss in Racine can be accounted for from the fact that all stamps canceled in that office were not supplied therefrom, but were purchased elsewhere, presumably in the city of Chicago, as it is well known that many establishments in that city receive large quantities of stamps in payment for goods sold and forwarded, by mail and otherwise, to purchasers throughout a large extent of territory, and it is believed that the accumulation of stamps, under the circumstances stated, is so great that they are sold at a discount. Not a few of these large houses, also, have branch houses, which are supplied with stamps from the home establishment, and which purchase few, if any, stamps from the postoffice where the branch is located. These practices also worked indirectly to many other offices, which would render a better showing if they received full credit for all the stamps canceled.

Stamps as Currency.

The practice of using stamps as currency is a bad one, and should be remedied in some manner. It would seem that the department might meet the question by providing for the redemption and cancellation of stamps received in large quantities as currency by the mercantile firms of the country, if no other way can be provided to correct this growing evil. When the receipts of a postoffice reach $10,000 per annum it is designated as a first class office. There are seven such offices in the state—Milwaukee, Racine, Madison, La Crosse, Oshkosh, Green Bay, and Superior. The salaries of the postmasters at these offices are: Milwaukee, $6,000; Racine, $3,700; Madison, $3,200; La Crosse, $3,300; Oshkosh, $3,200; Green Bay, $2,100; Superior, $2,000.

Will Give Letters TO THE ATHLETES

Special Rulings for the Official Was Given Out by the University.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 23.—In an effort to brace up track athletics at the University of Wisconsin, which this year are more sadly in need of bracing than ever before, the board of directors of the university athletic association last night decided to be more liberal in the granting of the university emblem to students taking points in this department. It was determined to grant the Wisconsin official "W" to athletes who should win eight points, including one first place, in intercollegiate contests with Michigan, Illinois and Chicago, or one point in the final intercollegiate conference meet. Heretofore only those who won at least one point in the final big meet were rewarded with the university emblem. Track Coach James Temple, Jr., has complained all through the season that he had no material to work with, that the men who should be working on the track and in the field declared the chances for honors were so small that they did not think it worth while to train and it was in order to get out more material that the change was made. Other universities are even more liberal. At Michigan point-winners in intercollegiate meets are rewarded and at Chicago the emblem is granted on the recommendation of Coach Stagg, so that he can grant the honor to consistent workers even though they may not make a place on the team or win points in a contest. At the meeting it was also decided to reward the members of the Wisconsin water polo team by allowing them to wear the word "Wisconsin" on their caps or shirts. The baseball men must play in three intercollegiate games, the football men in at least one half of an intercollegiate game and an oarsman must row in the race at Poughkeepsie in order to earn the right to wear the Badger emblem.

Modern Hunting.

In shooting, as in other sports, thorough luxuriousness is now regarded by modern shooters as a prime necessity of enjoyment. They have their loading done for them, their birds are driven to them and in greatly increased numbers, their luncheon hours are devoted to the best in many courses of food and wine and they get home by motor as quickly as possible after shooting is over.—London Country Gentleman.

NOT IN THE DENTAL COMBINE.

These are trust busting times. There exists an IRON-CLAD agreement among the Dentists of Janesville whereby, over their written signatures and upon their word of honor, they AGREE TO OBTAIN CERTAIN PRICES FOR THEIR WORK.

What is this but a TRUST? There's a dentist in Janesville who "stands out from this combine."

Let us see how this works: The combine agree to charge $10 for Gold Crowns.

Dr. Richards, being free to make his own prices, is making these gold crowns, guaranteed to be equal in every respect, for just $5 each.

He says he had rather work for a LARGE number of patients at a MODERATE profit, than to work for only an occasional man and have to charge him so much that EVEN HE won't come again.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, May 23, 1865.—Jeff D. in Crinoline.—A picture representing this great sneak dressed in crinoline and clambering a fence while attempting to escape from the Union soldiers has attracted a great deal of attention in the window of Webb & Co's jewelry store during the past few days. It's a good thing.

The Sale and Exchange Day.—If we may judge by the universal approbation that plan of holding days of sale and exchange meets by everybody, we have a right to conclude that the attendance will be large and profitable to those present. We trust that the interest will be general, and prompt the farming community to make the occasions interesting ones.

Personal.—Wilcox, formerly of the Janesville Gazette, dropped in on us one day last week. He thinks Janesville about the center of all creation, though he admits that Whitewater is the handsomest town on the continent.—Whitewater Register.

Dan has evidently been stuffing that Register fellow. Think of Whitewater being called a handsome town! Where is Stoughton?

The News.

The people of Georgia and Alabama are coming to their senses and getting ready to resume the functions of peaceable and loyal citizens as soon as they can get around to it. Judge Byron, of Alabama, says the war has settled the questions of secession and slavery, both adversely to the South.

There will be twenty-one miles of soldiers, six abreast, in the review at Washington today.

The Punishment of Jeff. Davis.—The New York Independent says: "The question now leaps to all men's lips, 'What shall be the punishment?'"

It is a question, which may be safely lodged with the government—where, alone, its responsibility belongs. Shall he be tried for treason? Shall he be tried for inhuman treatment of soldiers? Shall he be tried for assassination? Or shall he be tried for all these crimes? But on whatever charge he may be tried, let his trial be dignified, passionless and impartial, and, after the sentence, let the death penalty be solemnly executed. Opposed as we are to capital punishment, and hopeful that one day, the nation will abolish the scaffold, yet, since the American people have chosen to punish ordinary criminals with hanging, how shall they permit the greatest criminals to go free? We build our arguments upon this rock: If the government shall not hang Jefferson Davis, then let it never hang another man while the world stands.

SIMPLE FROCK IN SILK DOTTED MULL.

A smart simplicity is the keynote of many of the summer modes, and this is well exemplified in the frock of white dotted silk mull, the old-time shower of nail pattern being among the recent revivals from other days. The bodice lining in white silk is fully fitted and fastened in the back. The mull is arranged in yoke fashion, shirred ribbon running from the collar to the edge of the yoke all around. A second and similar application of ribbon trims the bodice around halfway above the many-pointed belt. The sleeve is of the approved elbow length, a double puff of mull being separated by shirtings and ruffles of ribbon cleverly used for trimming. The skirt is shirred in yoke style over the hips, and at the knee a full flounce is shirred beneath a ruffled ribbon heading. Rows of the shirred ribbon decorate the flounce and a smart finish is made in the use of a plain white velvet ribbon at the edge for a coat trimming.

Relegating Unsanitary Workrooms.

We need not rely upon the poets and poetical historians for knowledge of what the "handicraft" civilization meant. We can study it, writes David Graham Phillips in the Reader Magazine, as it survives practically unchanged in the miserable hovels of Bohemian and Italian and Spanish peasants, where men and beasts rot together in conditions of sanitation that would not long be tolerated in any place where the "machine civilization" has inaugurated its high and ever higher moral and physical standards. We need not go so far from home. To get a picture of a prosperous handicraft city of the middle ages, go to New York's east side, where are the fast-disappearing sweatshops that were transplanted from "handicraft neighborhoods of Europe. The poets have it otherwise; and so do the historians who like to paint alluring pictures for their readers—and hate to grub for facts. But there is the grisly truth. Contrast the average sweatshop with the average factory. No; contrast the best sweatshop with the worst factory.

"WITTENBERG EXPRESS."

Droll Conveyance Bearing That Dignified Name in the German Town.

Not many years ago, on the high-roads about Wittenberg, in Germany, travelers frequently met an old woman trudging slowly along, pushing before her a light wheelbarrow loaded with bundles and parcels, writes Gertrude Elledge, in "Queer Carriers," in St. Nicholas. The old woman was at least 60, but she was so cheerful and uncomplaining that the people had no hesitation in employing her. She had many knick-knacks and parcels to carry to and from the city, into which, three or four times a week, she pushed her barrow, which folks called the "Wittenberg express." This plucky old woman walked with her express wheelbarrow at least ten miles each trip, and her earnings, a small fee for each parcel, served to support herself and her two invalid daughters, who could do only a little sewing. The old woman would allow no one to pity her; she liked the work, she said, and was only sorry that as she grew older she could not make such frequent trips for her earnings were helping herself and her children.

As to Bones.

Somebody said, "The nearer the bone the sweeter the meat." Yet many persons remove the bone before cooking the meat, thereby losing the marrow juices. Li Hung Chang had his chickens cooked with their heads and feet on. Our butchers deprive us of the heads, legs and wing tips, after charging them on the bill. They are welcome to the heads and legs, but the wing tips are a delicacy. The Chinese in Mott street stew the heads and legs in chop suey. Some epicures eat the head of a cod in preference to any other part. Some wise people in this city make bags of the skins of chicken's necks and stuff them with a kind of hash. When baked brown and crisp they are delicious.—New York Press.

"Yes," answered the fractious man. "A horse doesn't treat threats and blows with the silent contempt that an automobile displays."—Washington Star.

THE EQUITABLE LIFE.

The muddle in which the officers of the Equitable Life Insurance Co. is involved, has so thoroughly stirred up life insurance that the business is temporarily damaged and all institutions of this class suffer in consequence.

The Insurance Journal of New York has taken a lively interest in the affair and in a late issue publishes a statement from H. H. Knowles, former supervisor of agents, in which the second vice president, Gage E. Tarnbell, is accused of being the man who stirred up the trouble, actuated by an ambition to get Mr. Hyde out of the way, and secure the presidency. The president, Mr. Alexander, is an invalid and will probably not long survive. After publishing the expose the Journal says:

"The Equitable Life and its trouble have not done the slightest harm to life insurance. If the officials of the society had done everything insinuated against them by the yellow press— which Heaven forbid!—the Equitable could still have done no harm to life insurance. Or if the general agents of the company besieged the offices on Broadway with shot and shell no one could rationally charge the Equitable with having done harm to life insurance. Then what has given rise to this statement? The cause may be found in panic. The people, unfortunately, are too quickly unbalanced. They are easily panic-stricken. We are not prepared to deny that the present quabble is doing temporary harm to the business of life insurance. But between the business and the principle of life insurance there is a great distinction. The man who, having devoured the yellow journals on the subject of the Equitable, says, 'I no longer believe in life insurance,' is a public-stricken and ought to be brought to his senses. If a railroad company has troubles of internal management the public do not refuse to ride on trains. A man might be seated comfortably in a railroad carriage reading the account of a disturbance in the ranks of the company's officials and the news would not cause him to jump out of the window. Why, then, by exactly the same reasoning, should any man fear to ride, along with an insurance policy because there is question as to the future management of the company that carries him? He needs the insurance just as much as the man in the train needs to get to his destination. The principle of life insurance, safer, in fact, than the principle of railroad traveling, which involves the risk of accidents. Why avoid it then?"

PAYING THE PRICE.

The city of Philadelphia is paying the price for neglecting to elect an honest common council. In spite of indignation and threats of personal violence, the aldermen have just voted a 75 year franchise to a local gas company for a consideration said to be much less than was offered by a New York company.

So much indignation prevailed and the excitement was so intense, that the council chamber was heavily guarded while the transaction was being completed and when the session closed an escort of policemen was necessary to insure safety to the aldermen on their way home.

It is suggested that if the mayor vetoes the measure that it will be passed over his head, and the claim is made that the courts are powerless to afford relief. The amount of money paid for the franchise was $25,000,000. What the aldermen received is not stated, but the people will be paying two prices for gas for years to come.

The citizens of Philadelphia, like the citizens of every other city, are alone responsible for these conditions. The people are slow to admit that they want corruption in public office, but they are fast to secure it, when they neglect the plain duty of citizenship. The good people of the city of Brotherly Love, either stayed away from the primaries or neglected to go to the polls. In either case they voted directly or indirectly for just the kind of government which resulted, and they are not entitled to sympathy.

There are law abiding people enough in any city to control it, but if they are too pure to take an interest in public affairs, they have no right to complain. The city of Philadelphia has the sort of government which the people elected to have and the citizens should be satisfied.

WILLIAM E. CRAMER.

In the death of William E. Cramer editor of the Evening Wisconsin, Milwaukee, has lost one of her most esteemed citizens, and the newspaper fraternity one of its oldest exponents. Mr. Cramer came to Milwaukee from the Albany Argus in 1847 and bought the Courier of Milwaukee, the name of which he changed to the "Wisconsin." His life was devoted to his work and for nearly 60 years his ambition to maintain the high standard of his paper never faltered.

With the breaking out of the civil war he deserted the democratic party and became a republican, and from that time on he and his newspaper were prominently identified with the party.

For many years Mr. Cramer was blind and partially deaf but he continued in active service until within a few months of his death.

Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia now has the opportunity to show that he really means what he says. Veto that gas grab and be the idol of the people. Sign it and the people will live just the same.

Bryan is to tour the world. He is following the old story of hitch your chariot to the tail of a comet or he may be trying to outdo Phaeton and have the same disastrous fall that this ancient driver had.

The epidemic of crime which is running riot in Janesville just at present could be stopped by the arrest of the perpetrators instead of helping them out of the window ways and letting them go.

Castro must step up and take his medicine from "Dr." Roosevelt. No fooling this time. Take it like a little man, Castro, and see the bright penny papa will give you.

Wisconsin these days as the old April frolics used to be. The earth is certainly cooling off a bit at this end of the globe.

One by one the nations of the world have dropped free silver for the gold standard and still Bryan breathes, sleeps and eats.

That new state of western Pennsylvania will have a hard row to hoe when it tries to leave Philadelphia out of the swim.

When are the band concerts to commence. There is nothing like music to soothe the troubles of the busy men and women of Janesville.

The talk as to a Fourth of July celebration is rapidly taking form and it would not be surprising if Janesville really had a good sized celebration.

The police now wear their new helmets and the council will meet on next Monday night. The two things are different, yet so alike.

PRESS COMMENT.

La Crosse Leader-Press: Whenever the state administration needs money, it finds the railroads still owe something.

Exchange: Miss Ellen M. Stone is going to return to Bulgaria. She need not expect to be kidnapped a second time.

Boston Globe: News dispatches say that during a rainstorm in St. Louis last Saturday fish fell by the hundreds. Hard luck again! Should have fallen the day before. Chicago's turn now.

St. Louis: Globe-Democrat: It has been so long since the paymaster was around that admirals Togo and Rossetsky have no pocketpieces to toss up for choice of corners.

Chicago Tribune: The theory that a half-ripe strawberry will ripen while on the way to market has been found at this end of the line to be wholly fallacious.

Minneapolis Journal: "Morality in many men," says Professor Patton, of Princeton, "is a lifetime endeavor to keep out of jail." Dr. to steal enough so that they will be admired rather than punished.

New York Herald: There doesn't seem to be much use in working to acquire millions. Even men bright enough to succeed at it can find nothing better to do with the millions when they have got them than to give them away again.

Sheboygan Journal: Janesville policemen refuse to wear white helmets; the despatches don't say how many police there are in Janesville, but judging by the newspaper despatches sent out from the town the force must number at least 3,000 men.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The Topoka Journal ventures the opinion that "there is a new United States senator up in Wisconsin who will either have to pay his fare to Washington or walk." And to tell the truth, the guess is a perfectly safe one.

Superior Telegram: A good many newspapers are speaking ill of Nan Patterson because she has signed a contract to go to work at the only honorable kind of employment she ever had. Evidently they think she could spend her time weeping and blowing her nose.

Racine Journal: The veto of the governor of the proposed law which would place with the board of control the power to pardon, and to thus shorten the terms of prisoners, except where excepted, has been variously commented upon. But the governor on this matter is right, and no such power should be placed with any board.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The Second Chamber of the Holland States General has appropriated $250,000 for the purchase of the ground upon which Andrew Carnegie's $1,500,000 peace palace is to be erected at The Hague. In case of war this peace palace will of course be as useless as the peace tribunal, and in case of peace it will not be any more necessary, but it ought to be a fine and attractive building.

Necanah Times: Oshkosh patriotism is something that beats the bunch. On Monday night a mass meeting was held, called by Mayor Banderob to discuss a Fourth of July celebration. The attendance was unanimous and enthusiastic. It consisted of the mayor and a solitary citizen, James Laing. The report in an Oshkosh paper that the meeting was "large and respectable" was verified by one being large and the other respectable.

W. K. Stone, in Recreation: There seems to be a kinship between the voices of marsh dwellers. Most of them seem, to my ear, to have a muddy aquatic note. The frog's boom sounds like some great stone dropped into the water. The little marsh wrens song is the babble and tinkle of water running out of a silver flask. The heron's cry seems to have contracted a hoarseness from the damp. The notes of all the marsh birds have a muddy or liquid sound which is characteristic, and seems in accord with their surroundings.

Madison Journal: There is considerable gossip as to who will get the gubernatorial nomination next fall in this state. A half dozen or more gentlemen are named, most of them aggressive administration men. It is a pretty compliment. The primary election, however, will determine the party leader, and it has been pretty clearly shown that the party is fairly divided on administration sentiment. It will be a poor year for mere echoes and slaves, and a good year for independent thinking, brains, and manhood.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Yet with all this rancid notoriety thick upon her she is, instead of sinking into deserved obscurity, to go before the footlights as a "stellar attraction" with a reward for sheer misdoing that to thousands of modest women trying to earn an honest living by honest work must seem like wages beyond the dreams of avarice. No right thinking person would grudge Nan Patterson an opportunity to earn a living quietly and decently, and to live down her past. But this amazing reward of demerit and flaunting of evil notoriety is indecent and unwelcome, and means a reflection on the public taste and moral standards which the public might do well to resent by staying away from Nan Patterson's performances, and intimating that sympathy with her distress as a prisoner in the Tombs by no means implied admiration of her character.

Chicago Chronicle: The difference between the Wisconsin local bill and the Esch-Townsend national bill is mainly one of degree. The Wisconsin bill is more drastic. It aims to make the action of the commission more prompt and to afford less opportunity to render its action nugatory by legal delays. Thus it is well calculated to afford a test of the principle of the proposed national legislation on a limited scale. It is more likely to succeed and less likely to be destructive of property rights because its operation will be restricted to a single state and that, a state, not of the first rank in commercial importance. The task of the commission will be far easier than would be that of a national commission charged with a like duty. If it fails the chances for the success of a national commission will be far from good. The Wisconsin experiment will put to a practical test the question whether the power of a commission to make "a rate" involves the power to make all rates, and whether it is possible for a commission to make a just rate without also making many related rates. As The Chronicle recently suggested, it may be well for congress to wait and see how this sort of legislation works on a limited scale before trying it on a national scale.

MASS MEETING TO DECIDE QUESTION

WHETHER JANESVILLE IS TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH THIS YEAR

TO BE HELD THURSDAY NIGHT

Every Citizen Interested in the Matter Is Requested To Be Present to Give His Views.

Whether Janesville is to hold a Fourth of July celebration this year or not is to be decided at a mass meeting of the citizens on Thursday evening at the assembly-room of the city hall. The meeting is called by Secretary Bingham of the Business Men's association at the request of many merchants and citizens. A large attendance is desired so that the true sentiment of the citizens regarding this matter can be learned. If Janesville is to celebrate it is thought by many of the merchants the preliminary work should begin at once so as not to be rushed at the last end. The meeting Thursday night will voice the sentiment of the citizens and if it is decided to hold a celebration committees to take charge of the different branches of the work will be appointed at that time.

The call
A mass-meeting of citizens of Janesville is called for Thursday evening, May 23rd, at the city hall. The meeting will be to discuss the advisability of holding a Fourth of July celebration this year, and all persons interested in the matter are earnestly requested to be present. The meeting will be called to order at seven-thirty. BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

L. B. Carle, Pres.
A. B. Bingham, Secretary.

General sentiment seems to favor the holding of a celebration this year. Former successes in this line have made Janesville known all through the country and should a celebration be held here this year it is probable that the city would be thronged with visitors. It would do much to advertise the city. The success of last year, of the labor parade in the morning, the Nonesuch Brothers' circus in the afternoon and the general fireworks and band concerts in the evening have been spread throughout the country and Janesville has an enviable name as a city to come to for a good time.

The Pros and Cons
The meeting on Thursday night will have much to do and it is hoped that every citizen interested in the welfare of the city will be present, so that the pros and cons of the question can be fully discussed. "It is well to start early," said one of last year's committee, "so that we can have the pick of bands and attractions instead of having to rush at the last minute. If we are to have a celebration we should decide promptly and get to work. Personally, I think it a good thing."

IMAGINED THEY WERE COLLEGIANS

Gang of Town Boys Tried to Haze Caemmerer Last Saturday Night and Narrowly Escaped Court.

Upon leaving the high school where he had attended the "Hard Times" banquet of the Juniors Saturday evening, Walter Caemmerer fell into the hands of a band of young men lying in wait to "haze" the first male member of the class who should come their way. Over his ordinary garments, in accordance with the fashion, prescribed for this event, young Caemmerer was wearing a suit of overalls and the young scamps who had been imbibing college traditions from the lurid stories of the newspapers proceeded to tear these off and threaten their victim with divers sorts of punishment such as immersion in the river, and so forth. At this juncture, however, some of Caemmerer's classmates took a hand in the mole and put the gang to rout. Today the Caemmerer boy swore out a warrant for the arrest of George Scarcliff, whom he charged with being the leader of the gang, on the complaint of assault and battery. This warrant was not served as the boy's father, George Scarcliff, Sr., appeared in court this morning and after a conference with the Caemmerer boy and his mother the matter was settled without resorting to the mills of justice.

Small Blaze at County Asylum

Was Discovered in Time Last Evening and Terrible Catastrophe Averted by Prompt and Efficient Work

What might have proven a terrible fire catastrophe at the Rock County Insane asylum was averted last evening by the timely discovery of the blaze of unknown origin which started in a clovepress adjoining the chimney in one of the cooks' rooms in the second story of the east wing of the building, the coolness and presence of mind of Supt. Killam, and the efficient work of the institution's fire department and corps of attendants.

Fire Discovered
One of the employees while passing by that section of the building shortly after six o'clock observed that the room above the kitchen seemed to be filled with smoke and quickly reported his discovery. The amateur firemen were quickly summoned and thanks to the new standpipe which the county board installed on the superintendent's recommendation at a cost of several thousand dollars last fall, and which contains 1,500 barrels of water, several streams were soon playing on the burning walls and partitions.

In Bedrooms
The fire got no further than the two rooms adjoining and the trunks and considerable other property of the occupants were saved. The water likewise did considerable damage but the total loss, it is believed, will not exceed $300 and it is fully covered by insurance.

Much Excited
Although the scene of the disturbance was remote from the quarters occupied by the inmates of the asylum, the latter were alarmed by the blowing of the fire whistle and the attendants had a heavy task on their hands in keeping some of them quiet, especially the thirteen who were brought to the institution several months ago after the disastrous fire in the Racine institution.

Over Very Soon
The fire was all over after half an hour's work and the fears of the patients gradually subsided. There are 167 in the insane asylum and 65 are at present living in the poorhouse.

$10,000 ADDITION TO COURT HOUSE

Is Contemplated by County Board, and Matter Will Be Made Special Order of Business Tomorrow

In all likelihood the county board which met for organization and re-elected F. F. Livermore of Beloit as chairman, will take steps towards the building of a $10,000 addition to the courthouse before the present session adjourns. Supervisor Simon Smith, chairman of the building committee, in making his report said that new vault room for Judge Sale's office could only be provided by cramming the present quarters and encroaching on the furnace-room in the basement. The outlay would be $2,000 at least and within a year, the board would be compelled to provide similar additional space for the clerk of the circuit court. When that problem confronted them they would find themselves without any available room whatever in which to build. The plan that had suggested itself to the committee was to build an addition to the rear of the building where the back steps are now located which should provide enough vault space for the next fifty years. This addition could be built in such a manner as not to injure the architectural outlines of the building and being one story above the basement, would not cut off the light or necessitate any changes in the offices and chambers, save the transforming of one window in Judge Sale's office and one in the circuit-court's lower room into a doorway. It was estimated that this addition would cost $10,000 and the two sets of filing cases needed at once which would provide for about 10 years, would cost $2,000. On motion this matter and the request of the trustees of the Rock county asylum for a new haybarn, were made a special order of business for tomorrow morning. The board thereupon adjourned.

BILLIARD WIZARD GAVE ANOTHER EXHIBITION

George Sutton, the Handless Expert, Entertained Large Audience Last Evening.

A large audience witnessed the exhibition given by George Sutton, the handless billiardist, at the Leffingwell parlors last evening. In a game with Ben Marksman the "wizard of the ivories" made an unfinished run of 100 and in the 14-inch ball-line game he played his 100 points before the opponent had 22. His best run in this latter game was 42. Some of his exhibition plays which brought forth applause were the square, four balls, carem all balls; the follow and a draw made in the same shot; some snake-line "possibilities" of the massé shot; and four distinct methods of making the same difficult shot—one by making the cue ball jump over the nearer sphere to the further one; another by dexterously lifting it over the cushion with the cue.

JENNIE PWETA IS SENT TO ASYLUM

Woman Who Tried to Bite Dr. Pemberton Last Evening, Not Believed To Be Afflicted with Rabies.

Upon his proffering a glass of water last evening to Jennie Pweta, a Norwegian woman who has made her home with Mary Kimball on South Jackson street for the past seven years, Dr. J. F. Pemberton was savagely attacked by the patient, who, after throwing the water in his face, made a rush on him and seized him by the knees, biting at one of his limbs and tearing out a section of one of his trousers-legs before he was able to get a back-hold on her and keep her from doing further injury. The other occupants of the room were so frightened to render any assistance other than to send for police and Dr. Pemberton had a hard struggle with keeping the woman in hand until the arrival of Officers Brown and Fanning. After their arrival she was taken in charge, and conducted to the county jail where she was after some difficulty placed in the padded cell.

While some of the symptoms, such as the rage following the proffer of the glass of water are similar to those peculiar to the rabies, Drs. Benckmaster and Pemberton who examined the woman this morning were of the opinion that it is a typical case of acute mania. The woman has not been right mentally for several years. She refused to have anything to do with her relatives who live in Edgerton and it was her custom to accept employment working in the tobacco warehouses or elsewhere and then suddenly disappear, returning perhaps several weeks later. Recently she had displayed more alarming symptoms, and within the past few days she had gone into several rooms of the Kimball home, torn down the curtains, and broken the windows.

It is true that she was bitten by a dog some two months ago but no one suspected the animal of being mad. Indeed, the canine which was a pet in the house where she was living had shown no signs of hostility towards anyone else, even strangers who entered the house. When Officer Brown visited the place the dog made a rush for the Pweta woman when she appeared on the scene. The animal was taken to the police station and shot and the wound in the woman's hand was cauterized.

During the examination this morning Dr. Buckmaster offered her a glass of water. Beyond refusing it and clutching spasmodically at her throat, she gave no further evidence of being afflicted with hydrophobia. One suffering with that malady usually has convulsions at the sight of water and grows steadily more excited instead of quieter, as in this case.

When asked to explain her attack on Dr. Pemberton she said that he had called her an evil name. She also charged the sheriff with the same offense this morning. This seemed to indicate that a hallucination of some kind was one of the phases of her mania.

Upon the recommendation of the physicians Judge Sale committed her to the asylum at Mendota, where she was taken this forenoon. A sister and Edward Ruffield, another relative from Edgerton were present at the examination. Beyond the damage to his wearing apparel, Dr. Pemberton sustained no injury; the woman in her effort to bite him failing to lacerate the flesh.

ROCK COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION MEETING HELD AT EDGERTON MAY 20 AND 21

With Exception of Few Addresses Caused by Unavoidable Absences Program Was Carried Out.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, May 22.—The thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Rock County Sunday School Association which opened its session at the Congregational church Saturday morning and concluded at the M. E. church Sunday evening, has been well attended. Barring the few weeks in the program by the unavoidable absence of some of the speakers, the days were filled as planned, with good things of profitable use to the Sunday school and church workers. About seventy-five delegates from all points in the county were in attendance and the getting together of such a delegation of Christian enthusiasts is in itself an inspiration not only to themselves but to those with whom they come in contact. The song services conducted under the leadership of Mrs. E. K. Tuttle of Beloit, were lively and inspiring, preparing the worshippers for the devotional services following. The addresses were all to the point, full of thought and heart interest, dealing with consecrated efforts to reach and hold attention in the Sunday School of boys in their teens, of Sunday School helps, the preparation a teacher should have and the manner in which he went before his class, and the making of a Christian worker.

Rev. Chas. Hill, a missionary at Bombay, India, occupied the pulpit Sunday morning and in a clear concise address told of the grand work of redeeming souls going on in that foreign land. The union S. S. at 11:45 was a successful uniting of thought upon one grand subject for a common cause. So on through the two days were crowded with helpful thoughts expressed, suggestions made, prayers offered and future service consecrated to more earnest Christian efforts to further the Lord's work, through the Sunday School, in the land.

The two days' meeting closed Sunday evening with a consecration service and as the delegates returned they could not help but carry back to their home churches a message from the sessions which will bring fruitful results.

Leaf Growers Hustling.

One by one tobacco dealers are closing down their assorting rooms and the marketing of leaf from first hands is nearing an end. The 1904 crop, however, has been more thoroughly packed up by the packers than any crop for several years. The continued rains and cold weather have retarded the growth of the sprouting plants but the warm weather of the past few days has brought them along nicely and in spite of all look well for this time of the year. So much moisture in the ground has kept the growers from pulling the fields until now. Everything is hustling among them at present and will be until they get the new crop growing.

Miss Dena Son.

The funeral of Miss Dena Son was held from the old home here Sunday afternoon. Rev. F. C. Richardson conducting the service. Miss Son's parents have both preceded her to the land beyond, her mother passing away but a few months ago. Miss Son was fifty-two years of age, a member of the M. E. church and a faithful worker therein. Besides a brother, Harry Son, of this city, she leaves many warm friends who will greatly miss her and grieve her demise.

Attended Declamatory.

Several teachers and scholars accompanied Miss Myrtle McIntosh to Whitewater Friday evening where she represented the Edgerton schools in the district declamatory contest held there that evening. Miss McIntosh carried off second place. Eleven took part in the contest representing as many different schools.

The visitors are much heavier than the home team and their victory was due to the fact that the Milton boys could not connect with the south-paw pitcher, rather than to good ball playing.

CHAPTER II.

A PERFUME-AS OF A WOMAN. Sergt. Parr continued, nevertheless, a careful scrutiny of the apartment. It was beyond doubt a library, for the backs of books showed behind the sheets that covered certain articles of large bulk. The adjoining room was in all probability the sleeping chamber of the master of the house. A casual inspection satisfied the officer that the bed had not been occupied since it was last made up.

But there was something more important still in the sergeant's estimation to be ascertained, and on that he had ample time to reach a settled conviction. It was evident at first sight that the man on the floor had come to his death by reason of a bullet wound. If his own hand had been responsible for the deed, the suicidal weapon must be somewhere about. And as a careful search failed to reveal any trace of such a weapon, the sergeant had made up his mind long previous to the arrival of the investigating party that the case was a very serious one and involved at the outset a deep mystery.

The scene soon changed. The room gradually filled with alert and dignified men, whose profession made their attendance at such times a matter of too frequent occurrence to permit of their exhibiting any other sentiment in the presence of the grim witness of violent death than a keen and speculative business interest. In the vestibule below two officers were stationed to challenge everybody who attempted to enter the house. Already in front of the building, so quickly and mysteriously does evil news disseminate itself, was gathered a throng which started with fascinated horror at the upper windows and at every fresh inquirer and outcomer.

Sergt. Parr had long since recognized Inspector Applebee, and had whispered in his ear that it was going to be a "big case."

"So?" said the inspector, lifting his eyebrows and half smiling. A moment later he was grave and apparently unconcerned.

Dr. Jarrett, the medical examiner for the district in which the body was found, came to the scene in a carriage. Till he arrived nothing was done. The state imposes upon the judgment and good sense of these officials grave responsibilities. In three minutes after his horse stopped in front of the house Dr. Jarrett was at work examining, questioning, weighing the evidences in his own mind.

The casual observer would have looked in vain among these quiet officials for the inevitable reporter. Evidently the newspaper man was barred out. Not at all. The public who look for a notebook, and expect to find in such circumstances a meddlesome young man writing with ghoul-like activity, would never have suspected the short, thick-set, black-haired, gentlemanly young man who talked with each person present in an easy way, which showed that he was personally acquainted with everyone. Instead of flourishing a notebook—the insignia of the property reporter of the theater, and of the beginners in the profession—this man had no better use for his hands than a mechanical fondling of the pendant to his watch chain—a trick which in some mysterious manner seemed to help him to think. Although he was young, his experience in criminal affairs, combined with his natural ability, had made his sagacity equal to that of anybody present, while his trustworthiness and reliability enabled him to be oftentimes in important cases a confidant of the authorities. This was Kingman F. Thomas, of the Globe.

The medical examiner arose from a brief inspection of the body, which was already identified as that of Paul North, the State street financier. Everybody looked at him curiously, but his imperturbable face told no tales. "Nothing has been disturbed?" he asked of the sergeant. "We know our business, sir. Everything is exactly as we found it." "Ah!" No more and no less, came in a matter-of-fact tone from the medical examiner's lips. "Well, doctor," said Mr. Thomas, "how is it?" "I shall perform an autopsy." This was said quietly. The medical examiner refrained from advancing his opinion at this stage, but Thomas understood that the determination to perform an autopsy indicated serious suspicion on the physician's part. There was a tremulous touch on his shoulder, and he turned to meet the eyes of a man whom he did not know. "What—what is that writing on the wall down there by the door?" asked a shaking voice. "This is a friend of the family, doctor," interposed Inspector Applebee, by way of accounting for this unfamiliar presence there. "He was Mr. North's partner. Naturally he is very much overcome."

In tones that were a trifle steadier Mr. Stackhouse repeated his question. Bending down to seek an answer himself, he started back, and would have fallen but for the opportune aid of the newspaper man.

"A horrible sight! I cannot look at it," he muttered, putting his hand over his eyes. "Tell me what you make it out!" "A glance of intelligence passed between the inspector and the sergeant. Each divined perfectly what had brought such a shock to the mind of Paul North's partner. Each understood fully the man's unspoken fear. Meanwhile Dr. Jarrett, applying certain mysterious tests, seemed more intent upon determining the medium of this strange message than the message itself.

"Written in blood," he said, eventually, looking steadily at Stackhouse; "and the condition of the forefinger of the right hand seems to indicate that the dead man wrote it." He paused and Stackhouse sank into a chair. "But what odds? The writing will endure, gentlemen. We have other things to do."

He gave the inspector a meaning look and resumed his work. Thomas lost not a detail of this scene. But now, with Inspector Applebee as his close companion, the library and the adjoining room were examined minutely. The room had been used very recently. Regarding that point, there was no possibility of doubt.

Chairs had been moved from their accustomed places. On the opened desk, which Mr. Stackhouse at once identified as his partner's, stood, amid a heap of tumbled papers, a drop light. Near by, a burnt match. Obviously the windows had not been touched.

The adjoining room, vouchered for as Paul North's chamber by his partner, soon recovering his self-control, bore no traces of occupancy. As the door was open between it and the library, it was plain that the master of the house must have passed through the room. He had not slept there, for the bed's surface was unruined, and not a fold of the pillows had been disturbed. "One thing is evident," said Thomas. "This man was not killed for money. I saw the doctor take a well-filled pocketbook from his person, and not a thing in the house appears to have been disturbed."

A call from Dr. Jarrett summoned the two men back into the chamber of death. "You had better look for the bullet, gentlemen," he said, quietly. "It is evident that it went clear through him, and it is surely nowhere about his clothing."

Instantly everybody was examining the room, the furniture, the walls, the carpet. But for some time, it appeared that the ball had been spirited away as mysteriously as the fatal weapon from which it had been fired. "Hallo!" exclaimed Thomas, suddenly, as he pointed to the wall, "what's that up there above that picture?"

Thomas was pointing to a slight protuberance in the surface of the wall, directly opposite the bay-window, near the ceiling.

"What, that?" exclaimed the inspector. "Impossible! It is quite ten feet away from the floor."

"But it's a bullet, none the less," said Thomas, who had already mounted on a chair and began to ascertain the distance of the puncture above the carpet.

"You are right, inspector," he said. "It is nine feet eleven inches from the floor, and is driven in diagonally, as if it had been fired from the corner of the bay-window over there near the writing-desk."

"I can't understand that at all," said the inspector. "It must have been deflected in its course somehow to have got there. The man was evidently shot in the breast. His clothes in front are simply one mass of blood. Ah! I see there was more than one shot fired. This is a stray ball."

The house was searched from top to bottom. Nowhere was any trace of intrusion.

"If Mr. North slept here at all last night," said the inspector, "it must have been in his chair in his library." Dr. Jarrett assented. Sergt. Parr, who had been notified from the fourth division that he need no longer remain on duty in the place, willingly volunteered to take, as he went out, a message to the captain in charge of the division.

"I have sent for an ambulance," Dr. Jarrett explained to the group that surrounded him in Paul North's chamber. "The body will be taken to the morgue, and I will hold an autopsy at once. As Mr. North's partner is here, I will waive the usual formalities and state beforehand that there is little doubt that an inquest will take place, though I would ask reporters not to make any such direct announcement."

Mr. Stackhouse bowed, "I quite understand, sir," he said, "and whatever testimony I can give I shall offer most willingly. But now I feel that I should take the terrible news to the family—my wife, you know, was Mr. North's daughter."

As Mr. Stackhouse went his way up the shady side of Marlboro street an inflated observer would hardly have failed to note that another man followed in his wake upon the opposite pavement.

The quiet reporter meanwhile had busied himself in making a diagram of the second story of the North house, which appeared the next morning in his paper in substantially the following form:

PLAN SECOND STORY.

House Fronts on Marlboro Street. A—Hall bedroom used by Mr. North since wife's death. B—Mr. North's library. C—Back bedroom opening into hall opposite head of front stairs (P), and connecting with library through wash room (D), and with toilet room (K). E—Front stairs. G—Back stairs. H—Closet. I—Windows. J—Spot where body of Mr. North was found. X—Writing desk. D—Point in wall where the bullet was found. Thomas sat cross-legged on one of the chairs in the unoccupied chamber through which the officers had originally entered, making a rough sketch on the back of an envelope with a stubby pencil, when he was slightly startled by the unexpected presence of a man at his elbow.

"Well, Thomas?"

"Ah, inspector."

"How does it look to you?"

"Queer."

"What are you going to say about it?"

"That it's a dead mystery—unless we make some unexpected discovery in the next half hour."

"Well, may be you're right. May be."

"It's no suicide," said Thomas, at last, "that's plain enough. And as there has been no robbery, it doesn't appear as yet why he should have been killed."

"No?"

"But of course you have your theory already?"

"When it comes to the matter of theories," returned Applebee, mischievously, "a plain policeman like myself can't hold a candle to you newspaper fellows."

"I see, you don't intend to answer questions," said Thomas. "I suppose I may state that the police are already on the track of the murderer, and that important arrests are momentarily expected."

"State what you please. You will, anyway," the inspector returned, with a slight frown. "No, I didn't come to answer questions, as you say. I came to ask them."

"Better than nothing. What are they?"

"In the first place, did you know North?"

"Just to the same extent that I know hundreds of men. I have seen him, talked with him—you know how and where."

"In the line of your work, you mean?"

"Exactly."

"Then, as to his family?"

"They tell me he has two daughters; both beauties. I never saw them, however. His wife, I believe, is dead."

"How did he stand in financial circles?"

Thomas uttered a contemptuous laugh.

"North & Stackhouse? Ask any broker."

"Bad?"

"Better put it that they showed too much enterprise to please conservative business men. That's the most charitable construction I can put on it."

"Humph! You have not a very high opinion of North & Stackhouse?"

Thomas shrugged his shoulders.

"Socially, they're gentlemen. Men who handle millions can never come down to the level of common thieves."

"They must be, then, enormously rich?"

"On the contrary, they are regarded as extremely shaky."

"So? And what have they done with these millions?"

"Got caught in their own trap. An unexpected twist in the market burnt their hands off. Oh, it's all the same in stocks. You can think yourself ever so clever—but I'm talking too much, inspector. I am saying things on my mere surmises that no newspaper would dare to print. Still, you wanted my opinion, and you have it. It would be of no use, I suppose, to ask yours in return?"

Thomas gave Applebee a keen look, under the influence of which the inspector momentarily closed his eyes, as if afraid that the reporter might surprise his thoughts there.

"Some clients of North & Stackhouse have no very pleasant feelings towards them. I presume, on account of this Nicaragua scheme?" he adroitly queried, as if to change the subject. It was adroit for that reason. While appearing to avoid a direct answer, he was, in reality, putting the very question which he desired to have answered.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Janesville People, and What They Say Is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this.

The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mrs. S. L. Belden of 64 S. River street says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrible dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work and if I did any lifting my bladder became affected causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headache which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any more confidence in them but I bought a box at the People's Drug Co.'s store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for U. S. also on sale at King's Pharmacy.

THE PRAYER WAS BELATED

Request Upon Bible Slip Read by Supply Minister Gives Congregation a Thrill.

A good anecdote is related of a young minister who was supplying the pulpit of the Wrentham Congregational church during the absence of its pastor, Rev. Elisha Fisk, better known as "Priest Fisk," whose pastorate in this church covered a period of 56 years, relates the Boston Herald.

Upon opening the Bible the young minister came across the following notice, which he read: "Mr. Libbush Porter desires the prayers of the congregation that his loss may be sanctified for his good."

Signs of repressed merriment appeared through the congregation, but the cause was a complete mystery to the young minister, who, upon arriving at the home of Mr. Fisk for lunch, inquired of Mrs. Fisk the cause of the unseemly hilarity.

She informed him he had read an old notice, used by her husband as a bookmark. It had been presented by Mr. Porter a year or two before, upon the death of his third wife. Mr. Porter, with his fourth bride, sat in the congregation while it was being read.

SAFELY THROUGH MOTHERHOOD WITHOUT PAIN.

What a wonderful message of hope and escape from suffering these words carry to that woman who is dreading the hour that shall proclaim her Motherhood. Perhaps her it is the first time God has blessed her with what awe and mystery and fear she can't explain the shadow which even now tempts her to shudder before in the way of many painful discomforts? The hope held in these words simply means that child-birth has been turned into an event of thanksgiving and joy, stripped of its agonies and dangers because of the learned skill of man.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is the name of the remedy which means so much to the expectant mother; she can apply it herself and feel an improvement at once. It relieves the pain and suffering which it saves when childbirth makes place. The testimony of Mothers who have used it is found in our book, "Mother's Friend." Send for it.

THE "UNDER MARRIAGE."

Pretty Ceremonial Which Precedes the Public Performance Among the Hollanders.

In Holland two weeks before a marriage takes place cards are sent out declaring that the banns have been published. This, says the New York Herald, is called an "under-marriage." The card also announces when the final marriage is to take place. The wedding itself is a small affair, and the civil marriage is the only one recognized by law. A church wedding is usually looked upon as a concession to either fashion or sentimentality, and is called a "conservation of the marriage." The couple enter the church behind the family members, bridesmaids and other attendants. They are shown to seats before the whole assembly, and the clergyman comes in with two witnesses, long after the others have been seated. He first makes a prayer, then delivers a sermon on a suitable text, which usually brings the bride to tears. After that the couple are married. Then a hymn is sung and the blessing given. The whole occupies about an hour and a quarter. Before leaving the church a huge Bible is presented to the bridegroom. During the two weeks of waiting between the "under-marriage" and the real marriage all the wedding festivities take place. The happy couple are literally surfeited with dinners, balls and theater parties, and all manner of practical jokes are played on the pair. At the dinner toasts innumerable are given, and at each the whole company rises from the table to sound and touch glasses with the bride and groom, who never rise. Among their friends the idea is not to allow the couple a night of sleep, if possible, before the wedding day. In place of wedding cake wedding candies are presented.

THE PRAYER WAS BELATED

Request Upon Bible Slip Read by Supply Minister Gives Congregation a Thrill.

A good anecdote is related of a young minister who was supplying the pulpit of the Wrentham Congregational church during the absence of its pastor, Rev. Elisha Fisk, better known as "Priest Fisk," whose pastorate in this church covered a period of 56 years, relates the Boston Herald.

Upon opening the Bible the young minister came across the following notice, which he read: "Mr. Libbush Porter desires the prayers of the congregation that his loss may be sanctified for his good."

Signs of repressed merriment appeared through the congregation, but the cause was a complete mystery to the young minister, who, upon arriving at the home of Mr. Fisk for lunch, inquired of Mrs. Fisk the cause of the unseemly hilarity.

She informed him he had read an old notice, used by her husband as a bookmark. It had been presented by Mr. Porter a year or two before, upon the death of his third wife. Mr. Porter, with his fourth bride, sat in the congregation while it was being read.

The Burson Seamless Hosiery,

While we consider the Burson hose excellent value, we do not think they take precedence over the many other makes of fine hose which we show, as great strides have been made in the manufacture of hose, all first-class makes being practically seamless, owing to the way in which the seams are finished.

CROP EXPERT SAYS GREAT YIELD IN SIGHT

Figures, Below the Government Estimate, Indicate Wheat Harvest Will Be Second Best in Eight Years.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 23.—H. V. Jones, the Minnesota crop expert, has returned from his inspection trip throughout the southwest. His report on conditions, while showing 42,000,000 bushels less than the government's conditions on May 10, is a conservative summary of the situation as he gauged it.

Taking the figures of 425,000,000 bushels as the best the winter wheat crop can do, that section of the country, if these figures are near the actual results, will harvest in 1905 the best crop in at least eight years, with the exception of the bumper yield of 1901, which was 429,675,140 bushels. The present prospect is only 4,000,000 bushels under, but is, of course, only a prospect, whereas the 1901 figures were the actual result.

Taking his lowest estimate, 375,000,000 bushels, as a possibility owing to advance conditions, that section of the country would still raise a crop that has been surpassed in but two years in eight, and is 79,000,000 bushels more than was raised in 1899, the lowest yield for that period. The prospects of a good crop are still maintained, but the outlook has declined to some extent from the high percentage of the May government report.

GREAT CAVE-IN RUINS SEN. CLARK'S MINE

Prescott, Ari., May 23.—Millions of tons of rock and earth caved in at noon Monday in Senator Clark's United Verde copper mine at Jerome, Ari., the ground dropping over the surface to the 700-foot level. Cracking timbers gave the alarm and 300 miners fled for their lives and escaped uninjured.

For several days the ground has been settling and timbers creaking. Monday with a mighty crash the earth caved, carrying with it the new shaft, levels, drifts and slopes. From fissures on the surface came clouds of sulphur smoke from that part of the mine which has been on fire for several years.

The extent of the damage has not been ascertained, but if it is as bad as feared the great property will be closed and the existence of Jerome will be doomed. The hoisting works, which are over the mine, have settled and the machinery cannot be worked. The smelting plant has also been shut down and all activity ceased.
